Dear Phyllis:

We are going around in circles on scheduling. To put it charitably, your insistence on rejecting every date we propose is counterproductive. Nothing in the Federal Rules gives you the right to depose witnesses on exactly the days that you choose, and in exactly the order you choose, without regard to the witnesses' availability or opposing counsel's schedules (including meeting with the witnesses in advance of their depositions) proposed. Given the number of lawyers working on this case, I'm confident that you can find someone to cover these depositions.

Sincerely,

Ross Wallin
